Q: Two tables aren't getting inserted In the database, in the "get" table there are two rows. But when trying to insert those same two rows into the "working" table, they get inserted into the "working" table, instead of the "get" table. I understand the problem is I'm using foreach loops to get the values in those two arrays, and that I'm altering one or the other, but I don't know how to solve it. This is the code I'm using to get the values: $result_get = $mysqli->query($sql); while ($row_get = $result_get->fetch_assoc()) { $id_get = $row_get['get_id']; $judul_get = $row_get['judul_get']; $artis_get = $row_get['artis_get']; $waktu_get = $row_get['waktu_get']; $image_get = $row_get['image_get']; $susexname_get = $row_get['username_get']; $get_full = $db->prepare("INSERT INTO working VALUES (NULL,?,?)"); $get_full->bind_param('ss', $id_get, $judul_get); $get_full->execute(); foreach ($get_artis_full as $get_id => $artis) { $artis_row = $db->prepare("INSERT INTO get VALUES (NULL,?,?,?,?)"); $artis_row->bind_param('sssss', $id_get, $judul_get, $waktu_get, $susexname_get, $image_get); $artis_row->execute(); $artis_row->close(); } } A:

What's New In Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.5.1)?

Letters 9/1/2005 Does the President Have Any Influence on Foreign Policy? Since the Democrats have taken control of Congress and are about to be handed the White House again, I've been wondering if the traditional executive branch of government has any sway over foreign policy. After all, isn't foreign policy supposed to be in the hands of the commander in chief? I've always thought so. This is a question that's been on my mind since the end of the Cold War. If the president can order the military to bomb a sovereign nation, or use military advisors to help make decisions on how to handle a crisis, then does he even need a foreign policy? If the president can work directly with the United Nations, what is he supposed to do in consultation with the State Department? This question has been bothering me lately because the current rhetoric about the war on terrorism and Bush's efforts to maintain our allies' confidence in us -- a necessary tool in dealing with these very volatile times -- has coincided with a pivot towards a "strong man" approach in dealing with the Middle East and its current leaders. It's not clear that our traditional alliances and cooperative relationships will work in the future, and that's putting it mildly. I've listened to Bush talk about his influence over foreign policy, and I'm not sure what he's saying. He often admits to little or no direct influence, but he says that he's "not a policy guy" and doesn't micromanage the U.N. and foreign policy issues -- as if the president is just a haphazard, misguided do-it-yourselfer. When discussing the economy and the budget deficit, he's just as candid about his lack of involvement. When he really gets enthusiastic and wants to talk about an issue he knows the media will cover, he's quite matter-of-fact about the fact that he can't control it all, and has to rely on surrogates to fight his battles for him. The real issue here is that the president is supposed to do what he can to prevent military action. But he can't be a "do-nothing" president if he's going to have any influence at all. So, in order to really see if he's "doing anything," we need a good, old-fashioned congressional investigation. Until then, we just have to keep wondering, and wondering.Q: Wordpress and routing in laravel 4 I am
