“Our ratings are much more accurate now, which means you can play and be rewarded with a higher in-game rating and more recognisable player likenesses,” said Matt Bilbey, Director of Sports Sciences for EA SPORTS. “Every one of our ratings are based on the player’s real-world performance.” In addition to these gameplay changes, the new game allows for multiple teams, the use of external partnerships and a new format for “The World Cup.” First-ever International Friendly matches will be available, as well as every World Cup winner-up to and including South Korea/Japan 2002. Once the new game is released, FIFA will continue to collect and review player behaviour information during and outside of competitions. This information will be used to ensure a consistent and fair playing experience across the FIFA lineup in all of the different formats. “Over the past 18 years, our ratings have evolved and improved to become more accurate,” says Peter Eriksson, VP of EA SPORTS’ World Cup department. “Now we are not just able to accurately reflect players’ actual on-field performances but ensure that we are always closely aligned with FIFA’s primary goal.” The FIFA brand has become one of the most recognised and respected sports brands in the world. With more than 375 million players, FIFA is the leading football game franchise on the planet with over 20 million players participating in FIFA competitions every year. FIFA 20 for PlayStation

4, Xbox One and PC is scheduled to release on September 27 worldwide. Extended Commentary In addition to the comprehensive set of English commentary, the new Extended Commentary feature allows for replays of key moments in matches, and pre-recorded editorials and interviews will be available to play alongside your commentary. Fans of commentary will also notice additional commentary for 60 in-game pieces of music. The Extended Commentary feature is also supported in online matches, where the replays, music, and interviews can be heard in the match results screen. FIFA 22 will be compatible with the Rockstar Editor (RSE) Rockstar Editor is the ultimate gaming toolset that allows players to create and share their own custom created content with the other players in the community. Also included in the package is the creation of your own Gamemodes and Maps. The Rockstar Editor is featured in many of the earlier games in the franchise like Grand Theft Auto 3, Grand Theft Auto: Vice City Stories, Grand Theft Auto: San Andreas, Grand Theft Auto IV and Red Dead Redemption. Development FIFA 22 was developed by a team of over 600 developers at EA Canada, led by the development team at Criterion Studios. The game was confirmed for a 2018 release date during an interview given by Criterion Studios creative director, Alex Amiel, on EA Play 2016. The development team shared their reasoning behind bringing back the Create a Club mode, and why they chose to model their gameplay on the Madden series. They stated that the create-a-club mode had become more prevalent in recent years as a way to bypass linear story modes. As a response, the development team wanted to create a FIFA that allowed players to customize their clubs in a way that they could not in previous titles. Alex Amiel described this mode as a
