I'm overwhelmed! I am so excited about my surprise and everything that is being packed up and shipped tomorrow! When I first had the package shipped out to my house a few weeks ago I didn't know what was in it or what it was. When I received my Amazon package today though, I realized that it was everything that I had ordered for the Secret Santa! It came with all sorts of goodies, a cocoa mug, a little book of quotes, a very delicious and cute potluck holder, a cardigan, and tons of funny decorations! I'm so freaking stoked! I know I've been rather lazy about doing my secret santa exchanges so it was a nice surprise to get such a nice package and to have thought of everything! I was never sure what gift to get for Reddit Secret Santa but I'm so glad that I went with books. I've been meaning to read The Glass Menagerie and saw that this came along with it so I'll have to get to reading it as soon as I can! It's also nice to have a nice mug to drink my coffee in while reading. Thank you so much for such a great gift!Q: How should I plan my vacations in order to avoid visa issues? I'm planning a short trip for myself to France. My motivation to do so are either to unwind from my busy work life, or to explore the European startup ecosystem, primarily France. It's not possible to apply for work visa, so I'm planning to stay in France for up to 2 weeks. The total cost of my trip will not be more than 150€ (I'm not sure about the exact amount). I'm going to be arriving in Paris on 26 January and I plan to leave there and visit some cities in northern France before leaving the country. What is the best way to plan my travels to avoid problems with visa regulations? A: The experience I have has been that if you're visiting a foreign country in your own name, most people can manage with whatever paperwork the country requires, at least if you're not visiting any sites you can visit as a tourist. (There are occasional cases of people not being able to enter the country at all due to over-scrupulous border officers, but they tend to be out of the way and only for travellers entering for a very specific purpose who are not visiting anything.) In your case you need a Schengen visa, which are usually pretty easy to get if you're

President Donald Trump stopped by an Ambridge Borough elementary school to greet children Monday morning and even answered questions from youngsters. Ambridge Elementary School Principal Melinda Baron welcomed the children to the school, telling them "We are your neighbors." Trump said that he is keeping an eye on people in the Pittsburgh area and wanted to come and say "thank you." He said he never received a thank you when he visited people or communities after storms. "Always the same thing, " Trump said, adding that the reception was "pretty good." Baron thanked him and said he should be around more as the fall gets colder. Students from the school were seen gathering to meet Trump and told the president he is "welcome." Do you agree that protesting is acceptable, but rioting is not?
